Lloyd Dennee Says . . .

. . . Sometimes I think there are more TV sets than there are people. Then I ride down the street, and, for some reason, all I can see are roof tops. I go home at night and dream about roof tops . . . from 7 gables to flat top tables . . . and, do you know . . . the roof top that really interests me is the one without the TV antenna. So-o-o-o, I wake up in the middle of the night—make a pot of coffee—and try to figure out why some people do not yet enjoy the wonderful experience that only a TV set can give a family. Then it comes to me . . . "Lloyd," I say to myself, "you gotta' figure out a real bargain" . . . so . . . I get on the phone . . . call my purchasing man and Sales Manager (They don't care what time it is 'cause they have ulcers too) . . . and we come up with this special sale . . . and, believe me, it's a dilly. A mammoth size, 20-inch, rectangular tube with super-powered chassis for better reception. It has everything you ever wanted in a television set, and yet priced lower than you ever expected to pay . . . Then comes the dawn . . . Why should I give sets away so reasonably, because some day I won't be able to find a single roof without an antenna . . . then I won't be able to sleep at all—But look at all the fun I'm having now!
